Something happened in Baton Rouge
& the white people said,
"But things were changing race relations were improving."

Something happened inside of me
while things were changing from one day to the next changing one disappointment to the next changing
& the meager thread of hope that u must hang by changing
in every Black face i see changes
one extra line of despair that wasn't their yesterday
changing
we never talk about it cause we found that talk only gets u one extra slap in the mouth
who wants to be slapped?
changing
momma/ i'm going to the white school now
u said if i finish—
"CHANGES"

but momma, Anthony, he got 2 de—grees
but he haf to be a coner philosopher cause the government can't find no file cabinet to put his hard earned de—grees in.

Daddy when I finished last year
i looked for ma rainbow
but they told me i had to be specialized
"Don't u like mopping?" they said
"but I got a college DE—gree
"How about the phone Co. U tried them?"
So i came back for another de—gree
then i can help Anthony out.
U think a M.A. will make a difference?
no man, i'm jes here
cause nobody else wants me
food stamps don't go with a college de—gree
I don't think u can have welfare either.
maybe Anthony should get a 3rd de—gree
at least we could talk about his intelligence & such efforts Angela was working on her 3rd one.

There are sins that make you happy.
There are sins that make you blue.
There are sins that cheer away the teardrops
As the sinners chase away the blue.
 There are sins that have a tender meaning
 That the eyes of lust alone may see.

 Are the sins that you gave to me

THE BARNUM AND BENTLEY CIRCUS

This way ladies and gentlemen to the Barnum and Bentley Circus!

Though lacking in exotic animals, the circus abounds in clowns representing the various comical colleges and student sectors of the University.

Ringmaster of this august body of semi-skilled performers is the baffled barker—otherwise known as the legislative vice president.

Bentley Alexander starred as guest performer in the circus until a "modest performance" cut his career short. So goes the legend of many circus greats.

Circus members, i.e. assembly members, perform a myriad of antics, from half baked attempts at serious legislation(?) to the art of paper airplane launchings—right before your very eyes.

And ladies and gentlemen if you find this one-ring circus does not provide enough antics for your viewing and listening pleasure, remember there is always next year. And if that is not enough, keep in mind that the Barnum and Bentley Circus is only a training ground—for the three-ring circus in the State Capital.

Favorite Professor of Louisiana State University

"Why do you think you were chosen the most popular professor?" This was the question posed to me by the Gumbo editors. I could not answer it. I suspect that no teacher who attains popularity with students really knows the reasons for his reputation. And if he thinks that he is a good teacher, he will be hard put to explain his effectiveness. The qualities that make for that necessary rapport between teacher and students are almost impossible of definition. But certainly the good or great teacher has to like people. I am often asked when I will retire. Not for years, I hope. I like to be with young people, and think I am helped by the experience.

AGRICULTURE

The College of Agriculture differs from the other Colleges on the Campus as it is charged with the responsibility of serving the entire State in a wide range of activities related to agriculture,—rural development, youth activities, and home economics programs. Thus only about 20 per cent of the personnel in Agriculture are directly involved in teaching programs at Baton Rouge; the remaining 80 per cent are involved in research and education programs throughout the State.

These differing responsibilities have an impact on student programs and activities at Baton Rouge. In addition to academic proficiency, students are expected to participate in a wide range of extra-curricular activities providing them experience in the types of leadership activities with which they are most likely to be involved after they graduate. Each department has a major club—an organization devoted to stimulating practical knowledge in developments and trends, and state and national activities—in which active participation is encouraged. These activities also give the student the chance to know his professor outside of the classroom and to have personal contacts with state and national leaders in the industry.

It is a College where the Dean is not a Dean—that work is done in the office of Resident Instruction—and where the student is more an active participant than a student.

J. Norman Efferson
Dean of the College of Agriculture

COLLEGE

SCIENCES

"Distinguish the permanent from the trivial, the substantial from the pretentious, the good from the bad." The Catalog has included those words as descriptive of the spirit of education in the College of Arts and Sciences for almost thirty years. And the spirit of liberal education thus expressed is much older, is indeed ancient, and has survived and surpassed revolution and gradual change, as well as catalog revision.

The College of Arts and Sciences consists of over 2200 undergraduate students and nearly 400 faculty members in 18 departments. Their disparate actions and achievements make sense to me only as participating in that spirit of liberal education. I would insist that the importance of human organizations is in their ideals and not their form, even as the ideals fall short of actualization, even if the College, like perhaps the professor who wrote those words, often seems more interested in the distinguishing than in the seeking of the permanent, the substantial, the good.

Those words assert stoutly that judgment is the most important goal of education—and of life. More important than specialized knowledge or technical or occupational skills. Otherwise, if one were educated, how would he know? The world may now or some day have too many typists or scientists or even humanists, but it will never have a surplus of judgment, which is the true goal of liberal education—liberal meaning "of free men," of men politically free but also deserving of political freedom through the achieved freedom of the mind from arbitrary or slavish ideas and attitudes.

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The College of Business Administration has entered the decade of the Seventies intent upon becoming a more dynamic member of the University and business communities. Several programs and activities underlie the new intensity with which the students, faculty and administration are interacting or will be interacting with other phases of both campus and community life.

At the forefront of these is the new center for Engineering and Business Administration or the CEBA Project. This center will house the entire College of Business Administration and the College of Engineering, with the exception of the major portions of the Chemical and Electrical Engineering departments. Located on South Stadium Drive, CEBA, at a cost of $14.7 million, will be financed by $10.7 million in state bonds and $4 million or more in private gifts. This will be the first building on the Baton Rouge campus which has been built with private support for a substantial part of the cost. It is anticipated that occupancy will be accomplished during the 1974-75 school year.

The mutual use of the facilities by Business Administration and Engineering will bring a more practical and functional interplay of instructional, research and service resources of the two colleges. It is a natural step in achieving the optimum in education and training for our students. At the same time this project will benefit the engineering and business community by drawing together in one physical facility the resources of the University most in demand by industry.

COLLEGE OF CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS

The College of Chemistry and Physics has been changing steadily over the past few years, and even more exciting and relevant change is now occurring. Its two largest departments, Chemistry and Physics, have shared with two other departments, Mathematics and Geology, in two very large and prestigious "centers of excellence" federal grants made during the past six years. Given in recognition of already outstanding and potentially excellent departments, these grants have permitted the hiring of many new nationally and internationally recognized professors and greatly strengthened both the teaching effectiveness and the research productivity in the College.

Course offerings and curricula have been substantially streamlined and modernized, incorporating the most modern concepts and teaching aids of a sound and progressive science education. Recent innovations include expansion into several of the Allied Health fields, and the newly created "second area" options in both the Chemistry and Computer Science Departments—new programs which place the College in the forefront of challenging change toward a more broadly informed and better balanced society.

In keeping with its strong emphasis on teaching effectiveness, the College has for many years (regularly since the 1940's!) obtained and collated student evaluations of classroom instruction. During the past few years, these evaluations of professors have been given even greater emphasis as they are obtained in nearly every chemistry class every semester and are cited in recommendations for promotion and salary increase.

Dr. Joel Selbin
Professor of Chemistry

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

A forward look toward the necessary goals of teaching and learning is the present day aim of the College of Education. One of the major problems is the attempt to train teachers to teach with the lack of available materials and equipment in the College, and then upon entering many classrooms the neophyte teachers are bombarded from all directions with instructional materials of which they have never seen or heard. Many areas of specialization are offered in the College of Education for the teachers of tomorrow, There appears to be an increasing trend toward specialization and this College has the faculty to present such an offering. Identifying student needs is quickly becoming a major function of the College. A closer working relationship between faculty and students is evolving towards a true reality and not just talk. Great strides are being made for developing this teacher training college to cope with the real world of the classroom teacher. The trend is developing that will bring college teaching closer to the real situation that exists in the classroom. In order for this to commence there has been a concerted effort to close the gap between theory and practice.

Charles W. Roberts, Jr., assistant professor of Education

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

The generally accepted definition of engineering is "the application of scientific principles to develop practical methods and processes for utilizing available natural resources for the benefit of mankind." Here at LSU some eighteen hundred students—from the entering Junior Division Freshman to the graduating Ph.D.—pursue programs which well educate them to help find solutions to problems facing society today: the feeding, clothing and housing of an ever increasing population, the generation of electric power and the operation of countless other machines which enable the individual to be more productive with less physical effort of his own, the provision of a transportation system to satisfy man's desires and needs for mobility, and the ability to do all these things and many more without detriment to the environment.

In all undergraduate curricula, the program includes a mixture of theory and practice and of lecture and laboratory work. At the graduate level, emphasis is placed on more specialized subject matter and upon research to strengthen the individual's technical competence and to prepare him for various careers.

Like the technology with which it is concerned, engineering education at LSU is constantly changing. The engineering student can no longer be identified by the slide rule dangling on his belt; he is more likely to be carrying a deck of computer cards. Surveying, drafting, and shop courses still serve a purpose in some curricula but are giving way to more sophisticated courses, such as mathematical modelling, systems analysis, and control theory; likewise, most curricula today require courses in the humanities and social sciences and in management to insure that the engineer is broadly as well as technically educated.

SCHOOL OF ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN

Today when the world environment is bandied around in the most haphazard fashion, people often limit its interpretation to pollutions and environmental degradation. They forget that in speaking of the environment they are actually referring to man's surroundings. Therefore, "Environmental Design" is a logical description of our function in that we are the designers of man's surroundings. This is a serious and complex responsibility, requiring a knowledge of the ecosystems, the socio-economic motivations of man and the technology of building expressed in the art of design. It is a forceful, direct, positive approach for in the future we will not have the time, energy or money to correct mistakes which should not have occurred in the first place. To accomplish these objectives requires the insight and skills of interrelating disciplines in a convergence of creativity. This is epitomized by the departmental structure within the School. There is no degree in environmental design as such, but rather degrees in the major disciplines responsible for the design of man's physical environment.

Dean Gerald J. McLendon

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Only a music major could appreciate what it is like to spend five hours working on a single phrase and still not have it "sing" like music should. Perseverance and dedication are thoughts of those students who range from a guitarist relaxing by playing Richie Havens to a soprano striving to reach notes in Carmen.

Those who can take it, strive for perfection; those not willing to give up enough of themselves, never quite create the sound that is truly music.

When one views humanity as a whole, there is ample cause for pessimism; yet when one observes humanity through individuals there are many solid foundations for optimism. The challenge of the future, then, is to always strive to maintain individual human dignity in the complexities of mass society.

I often feel that the use of the words freedom, peace, and justice is inversely critical of our system of their meanings. One may make judgments about government and society and criticize even without an alternative solution if such unrest is well-tempered with the optimism that only a mediocre system is always at its best.

College means many different things to each of us. Each can think back over past years and recollect fond memories and exciting moments. To me, college is a life long experience—it has provided friendship, understanding and love. All of these wonderful gifts have been realized through a personal relationship with the living Christ. Great joy, peace and happiness have been mine by realizing His love for me. Yes, college is an experience that lasts for a lifetime and its fruits are realized in Christ Jesus, our Lord.

OPENING THE '71 CAMPAIGN

Sixty-eight thousand screaming fanatics packed "Death Valley" Sept. 11 to kick off the 1971 football campaign watching the Bayou Bengals tangle with the highly under-rated Colorado Buffaloes. As the spectators sat back, visions of an undefeated season, a repeat of the SEC Championship, and a number 1 rating danced through their minds. It was not to be.

Everyone who thought Charley McClendon had been crying wolf about his inexperienced defensive eleven soon found that Mac's worries were not little white lies. Despite repeated thuds to the line by the thundering Buffalo backs, Colorado went into the dressing room holding only a slim 10-7 lead. Then lightning struck when Cliff Branch streaked down the sidelines on a distant punt return and from that point on, the outlook grew bleak. Only a long drive spearheaded by reserve signal caller, Paul Lyons, and an interception return by Jim Gainey kept the Tigers close in the final analysis.

THE JOKE IS ON THE AGGIES

Many jokes have been told about the Texas Aggies, but the Tigers certainly got the last laugh at the Aggies' expense on the night of Sept. 18. A. & M.'s coach Gene Stalling accused Charley Mac of running up the score after the Texans left Baton Rouge a 38-0 loser.

It was a monumental night for quarterback Paul Lyons, last year's goat who became the hero of Tigerland with a sterling performance. There were many standouts such as Picou, Estay, and Kavanaugh; and by 9:30 everyone had forgotten 1970's game and all was well. But, all was not well for defensive back Tommy Casanova who severely pulled a muscle, but few realized Caz would not be around for six weeks. With the defense already paying dividends for the price of youth, the loss of one of its two elite spalled problems against an offensive minded team from Wisconsin.

BADGING THE BADGERS

It was a long trip from Baton Rouge, Louisiana to Madison, Wisconsin, and Wisconsin was not too friendly to the visiting Tigers. Sept. 25 saw seventy-eight thousand fans—a new stadium record—howling for the blood of the Tigers. The scribes predicted an offensive duel, and neither LSU nor the Badgers disappointed the offensive loving fans.

Running and passing for an LSU record of 304 yards, Paul Lyons became the SEC back-of-the-week. The scrappy quarterback also crossed paydirt on three occasions and tossed for another six points to Handy Andy Hamilton. The rajun cajun, Art Cantrelle, also got into the act by scampering for 100 yards before limping off with an injured ankle. John Nagle also left the field of battle with an injury.

The final count read 38-28, and the Tigers bundled up their squad—many on crutches—and returned to friendly Tiger Stadium to face Southwest Conference foe, Rice.

LSU vs. RICE

The Tigers came out growling and plucked the Rice Owl all over the turf. To put it simply, Rice did the best they could, they showed up.

LSU's infantry attack blitzed through the Owls for over 300 yards while Bert Jones and Paul Lyons put on an aerial show which left the Rice Owls completely baffled. Perhaps the biggest star of the show was sophomore defensive back, Norm Hodges, who dashed by the Owls for a brilliant 84-yard punt return.

LSU's 38-3 victory convinced almost everybody that the Tigers were back into stride and the Homecoming encounter with Florida would raise more eyebrows.

A TIME FOR HOMECOMING

The Florida Gators, expecting to be a Southeast power for 1971, came into Baton Rouge after being whipped on four consecutive Saturdays. LSU decided to make it five by thoroughly trouncing the dejected Gators 48-7 before an enthusiastic Homecoming throng.

The only black mark on the Tigers came when Jay Michaelson missed his first extra point after a record of 20 straight. The stars were many, including a list headed by quarterback Bert Jones, running backs Art Cantrelle, Del Walker, and Mike Shoemaker, receiver-kicker Michaelson and defensive stalwarts Ronnie Estay, Louis Cascio, Richard Picou, and Tyler Lafuchi.

TAMING THE WILDCATS

Charley Mac returned to his old stomping grounds at Lexington, Ky., only to find the greeting committee not nearly as friendly as he and his Tigers had hoped.

Only the steady toe of Jay Michaelson saved LSU from a disastrous defeat at the hands of the fired-up Kentucky Wildcats. Chris Dantin's and Bert Jones' touchdowns were offset by a pair of Tucky six-pointers, but fortunately Mr. Michaelson outscored his kicking adversary 4 to 1 and powered the way for a rocky victory. Joe Winkler, Pepper Rutland, and Lloyd Frye played valiantly in pulling the Tigers out of the Blue-grass State as winners. Next a long needed open date and then to Jackson against arch-rival Ole Miss.

THE NIGHT THEY DROVE OLD DIXIE DOWN?

Coach Charley McClendon's Tigers, fresh from a week off, came into Jackson, Miss., sporting a five game winning streak, hoping for a rout over the arch-rivals and dreaming of a future battle with Alabama for the SEC championship. But Billy Kinard's Ole Miss Rebels turned LSU's dream into a turmoil and a nightmare.

Norris Weese, a refugee from Louisiana who joined the cause of the Johnny Rebs, was the main culprit in the Rebs' 24-22 upset. Weese journeyed over the Tiger defense with his running and ball-handling in handing Ole Miss a quick 21-0. LSU's fine tandem quarterback duo of Bert Jones and Paul Lyons and the hard-core running of Art Cantrelle roared to bring the Tigers back.

Trailing 24-7 with only five minutes remaining, the Tigers exploded for a pair of six-pointers and a two-point conversion. Then the scoreboard read 24-22 and only seconds remaining. An on-side kick . . . a recovery for the Tigers. All hopes flickered away after a long pass fell hopelessly to the turf in the end zone and Andy Hamilton lay on the five-yard line after being "mysteriously" bumped. Ole Miss has to come to Baton Rouge in '72 and a Bear was waiting with his Alabama Crimson Tide.

THE BEAR TRAP?

While the multitude of Louisianians talked politics and the upcoming gubernatorial election, the appearance of the gnawing old oak of a coach, Paul Bryant, alias the "Bear," and his red-clad pigskin squad, alias the Alabama Crimson Tide, certainly did not go unnoticed.

Charley Mac and his constituents plotted over how they would trap the Bear and his undefeated football team. LSU fans did not complain when Charley Mac announced that Tommy Cassanova would finally make his long awaited return.

A national television audience, sixty-five thousand spectators, and two fine football teams anxiously waited for the late 8:30 kickoff; but the defensive struggle that soon developed was quite surprising. After Johnny Musso ripped off gains of 20 and 18 yards, a thudding tackle by Caz ended Musso's national appearance. Two field goals left the half time score at 6-0 for 'Bama, and by that time "You are My Sunshine" had faded into shadows of sunset all cajun crawfish lovers were rejoicing with their Congressman.

The second half proved that LSU's defense, led by Estay and Casanova, was returning to the form of yesteryear and 'Bama fans were beginning to wonder if the Bear was going to fall with the Terry Davis, another Louisianian seeking fortune in another state who found a gold mine with a touchdown gallop in the third period. A late LSU rally once again fell short but no one complained about the effort put forth by the Bayou Bengals as they repeatedly shut back the Crimson Tide's offense and consistently drove down the field.

CATS AND DOGS

Mississippi State football supporters clang their cowbells in hope of either inspiring their Bulldogs or demoralizing their opponents. In the past few decades, neither worked too well and all that clanging only increased the sale of aspirin after the Bulldogs lost a hard fought 28-3 contest with the stumbling Bayou Bengals.

Three things seemed certain after the win—LSU could play defense like they did in the past Charley McClendon days, Bert Jones could probably throw bullets for the U. S. Army and Jimmy LaDoux would be a bona-fide superstar if he had any height to go with his quick-moving legs and sure hands. It was a lackluster win over a lackluster opponent. Perhaps everyone was getting prepared for the main event of the season—the big bad guys from the north, the Notre Dame Fightin' Irish.

REVENGE FOR MIKE

Go to hell Notre Dame . . . Tiger Bait . . . Irish Stew . . . Kill the Fightin' Irish. How sweet the sound. Everyone who had ever heard of football in Louisiana knew what these slogans meant and no one missed the "game."

Everyone oiled up his voice box to greet the Irish with a real Tiger roar, and the loyalists in the purple and gold disappointed neither their Bengals nor Ara's boys.

Bert Jones long bomb . . . Handy Andy's fingertip catch—the show was on. At the quarter, it was LSU 7, Notre Dame 0, and Notre Dame's team was just as big as they said they were. The Bert Jones-Andy Hamilton show had to wait while Ronnie Estay did his thing before a national TV audience. LSU's doomsday defense repeatedly denied Notre Dame entrance into the zone despite many close calls. Warren Capone intercepted and it was a time for the aerial show to get back into action. Jones stood unmolested behind a forward wall of Charles Stuart, Phil Murray, Mike Demarie, Lloyd Daniel, and Jack Jaubart who were having fun knocking down "Patulski and gang." Bert then fired for six points to Hamilton. LSU 14, Notre Dame 0, at the half.

The second half would be tough, no one had scored on ND all year in the second half. Bert scampered for a touchdown and Paul Lyons got into the act by flipping a scoring aerial to Hamilton. Jay Michaelson kicked four straight to give LSU its final total of 28. Notre Dame finally scored with 2:45 left to save some face, but not much. For the Tigers, the season was saved unless the Tigs could be upset by Tulane.

THE YEAR OF THE GREENIES?

Eddie Price led Tulane to their last win over L.S.U. way back before most of the Greenies or Tigers were even born. Tulane 1971 was going to be the same story as the previous years unless the Tigers were still gleeful over the ND victory. Even though Tiger Stadium was not filled and the Tigers were looking forward to the Sun Bowl and back at Notre Dame, there was no hope of whipping the Bengals.

Tulane gallantly fought a far superior football team, but the Greenies were far from the Tiger's class and the 36-7 shellacking preserved the LSU-Tulane rag for another year. An 8-3 season record was not bad, and the future held a place in the Sun.

A DUEL IN THE SUN

Charley Mac found a place in the sun for his Bayou Bengals. The place was specifically El Paso, and by game time the sun had long disappeared under the threatening clouds and cold north winds. Nevertheless, LSU and Iowa State were both ready for the Sun Bowl Classic.

Bert Jones was seen hoisting a victory sign with a huge trophy designating him as best player in the Sun Bowl. A 33-15 victory over the Big Eight did not hurt anybody's feelings. Mike Demarie portrayed Joe Fraizier with some fisticuffs against the Cyclone captain, as LSU's lead mounted, more Tiger entered the ring to display their abilities. It was a sweet victory for Charley Mac. But especially to Cantrelle, Estay, Hamilton, and Caz, who made all-conference. Estay was named "lineman of the year" by Chevrolet and ABC; Kavanaugh was most valuable in the Blue-Gray game. Another successful season, old stars would leave and new ones will appear; and who knew but 1972 may be the long-awaited year.

SOCCER

Para la mayoría de los estudiantes de LSU el fútbol es un deporte desconocido. Sin embargo, la versión del equipo combatiente de LSU de 1971 se volvió famoso por sus proezas al traer a casa el título de campeones de la conferencia del sureste. Estamos muy orgullosos especialmente de nuestro récord el cual fué de 12 juegos ganados y uno perdido, y porque sentimos que hemos hecho algo por el programa atlético de LSU.

El máximo acontecimiento de nuestra temporada fué el viaje a Knoxville para competir por el campeonato de la conferencia del sureste. Ganamos el primer juego contra Kentucky 7-2 y luego nos enfrentamos a nuestro más fuerte oponente, Georgia, en los semifinales. Después de decaer volvimos a recuperarnos y los derrotamos 4-3. Este fué, ciertamente, el juego más difícil de la temporada. En la final del torneo nos enfrentamos a los campeones de Tennessee; como éramos el equipo destinado a ganar, pudimos vencerlos fácilmente 6-0. La victoria fué grande para el entrenador, Namir Sizzat, para el equipo y para LSU.

Tal vez el momento de más satisfacción para mí fué cuando mi compañero Jean Boillant y yo fuimos nombrados miembros del equipo de la conferencia del sureste. Espero ansiosamente el próximo año para tratar de defender nuestro campeonato.

Bentley Alexander, president

For Bentley Alexander
He taught the deaf to reverence Bach,
And carved great poets from siren's rock.

O exile cry, the shorn edge,
A black sail steps the ocean bed.

Uncharted scars beside our course,
Direct us toward some final source.
The sky that slopes down on the plain,
Confines man's thoughts to simple claims.

Yet we would leave the thoughtful home,
On falling kites that climb the dome.

Forgive us all who must pretend,
Who fall deposed, yet face the end.

We spent ourselves on heaven's way,
And now returned, as captives stay.

Our thoughts perceive another sphere,
Yet search for home to forfeit fear.

Richard Kilbourne Jr.

Dear People,
This book reflects my concepts of what a yearbook is or should be. Some will not agree with this concept but it was I who had to make the final decision as to content and design. What I have tried to do is, to the best of my ability, present LSU as it was this year and portray the events that took place here. I believe that I was successful in this endeavor and this book truly represents LSU. All of the pictures are of campus activities or related events.

It was not my job to pass judgement as to whether these activities were right or wrong, it was simply to report them with pictures. If you do not like what you see then it is really LSU you do not like. I am sure there will be those among you that will not feel I have properly portrayed LSU, but it is my hope that the majority will agree that this is LSU as it is, for better or for worse.

The list of people I owe thanks to is too long to enumerate, so I will just say thanks to you all, for this is really a product of the LSU student body as a whole, for it was all of you that created the subject matter covered in this book.
